Dear Parents/Carers

The government has published details overnight regarding guidance for schools and advice for parents as well as identifying those parents who would be classed as "key workers". The full document can be found here.

The guidance is very clear that parents should keep their children at home wherever possible as fewer children in educational settings will limit the change of the virus spreading.

If you are involved in any of the areas of work defined as being key to the national effort as listed in the guidance and it is still necessary to send your child to school because there is no other alternative (see guidance) then please click here for more information.

I will write to all parents later today with further information/updates.

Thank you for your continuous support at this very difficult time for all.

Yours sincerely

Michael Ferry
